

BIO-SECURITY and SECURITY

AT THE HALTER SHOW

The health and welfare of your alpacas is paramount at all times, particularly at shows.

We would like to take this opportunity to remind exhibitors (particularly new exhibitors) to be careful to avoid direct contact with other exhibitors' alpacas.

Nobody else should enter your pens unless you specifically invite them. The colour check steward will remain outside the pen, you take your alpaca to him/her for checking.

If members of the public ask to touch the alpacas then we recommend that you provide a hand-clean facility for the public or refuse them; they should not be encouraged to go patting alpacas pen-to-pen.

We plan to ensure the collecting area is clear and only those alpacas waiting for the next classes should be in there, who should stand separately and avoiding nose-to-nose contact.

Do not allow your alpacas to visit other exhibitors pens, they do not need to say 'hello' to other alpacas 😊

There will be electric sockets to pens. If you plan to bring fans or electrical items, they will require to be P.A.T. tested prior to arrival.

Parking for exhibitors is strictly at the far end of the exhibition shed with animals being brought into the building through the animal entrance on this end of the building. Please park neatly to allow all exhibitors access to their vehicles, before and during the show.

Please do not let your alpacas on to any grassed area of the Showground – this is very important for the biosecurity of your own alpacas and for livestock coming to other events at the Showground

If you have any questions or concerns then please ask
